About me I'm Terry Jane Robertson, and I love creating patterns and seeing what results from the combined forces of color, rhythm/spacing, line, motif, intuition, and the current swing of things. I strive to create patterns that can be useful to other people who are also passionate about making life beautiful. I am focusing mainly on all things that make a home an inviting environment and experience. Table linens, wallpaper, quilts, upholstery, bedding, pillows, curtains, and more!

I am a California native and have spent most of my life in Southern California where I currently live in the Los Angeles area. I grew up taking inspiration from the beaches, vintage fabric found at thrift stores in Venice Beach (where I worked for a sculptor) and Hollywood. Disneyland, 1920's Spanish architecture, Japanese textiles, the mystique of Laurel Canyon, galleries and museums, and always the beautiful sunlight and atmosphere of water, landscape, and possibility. Trips to Turkey, Italy, France, Hawaii, and Cape Cod also fed my love for design.

My BFA is from CSU Long Beach, where I studied painting, drawing, and printmaking. After graduation, I took a few textile design classes at Otis Art Institute but ended up working as a graphic designer/art director for many years. In 2010, I started to make gouache paintings specifically for table linens, and in the past few years I have been immersed in honing and defining my surface pattern design skills and vision.

If you are looking for something original and layered, a fresh take on classic traditional with a relaxed elegance and hand-drawn textural approach, please get in touch! I thoroughly enjoy collaborating and delivering unique and useful designs. I welcome licensing, collaboration and commission opportunities, and I'd love to connect and work with you. Thank you for taking the time to look at my work!
